ROCKEFELLER GIVES ONE MILLION DOLLARS

to Establish a Commission for the Eradication of the Hook Worm Disease.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A gift of $1,000,000 by John D. Rockefeller to fight the "hook-worm disease," was announced at the office of the Standard Oil Company here late yesterday.

A dozen well-known educators and scientists, selected in large part from institutions of learning in the South where the parasite is prevalent, were called in conference with Mr. Rockefeller's representatives at the Standard Oil Company's offices at 26 Broadway last Tuesday, and at that meeting Mr. Rockefeller's desire to organize a commission to carry on a campaign against the malady was discussed. As a result of this discussion of the situation, the "Rockefeller commission for the eradication of the hook-worm disease" was organized.

The members of the commission, as selected by Mr. Rockefeller, are:

Dr. William H. Welsh, professor of pathology in Johns Hopkins University, president of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Simon Flexner, director of Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia.

Dr. David F. Houston, chancellor of Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri.

Prof. P. P. Claxton, professor of education in the University of Tennessee.

Hon. J. Y. Joyner, State superintendent of education in North Carolina and president of the National Educational Association.

Mr. Walter H. Page, editor of The World's Work.

Dr. H. B. Frissell, principal, Hampton Institute.

Mr. Frederick T. Gates, one of Mr. Rockefeller's business managers.

Mr. Starr J. Murphy, Mr. Rockefeller's counsel in benevolent matters.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. All but Prof. Claxton and Mr. Joyner were present at the meeting Tuesday and they have both since accepted places on the boards elected to carry out Mr. Rockefeller's plans.

Good Words for the South.

In calling these gentlemen together for Tuesday's conference, Mr. Rockefeller addressed to each a letter pointing out his interest in relieving human suffering caused by the "hook worm" parasite, especially because, he said, it had been his pleasure to spend a portion of each year among the warm-hearted people of the South and he welcomed the opportunity to express appreciation of their many kindnesses and hospitalities.

The members of the commission, in framing a reply to Mr. Rockefeller's offer of $1,000,000, declared that the proposition met with their heartiest approbation.

"Two millions of our people are infected with this parasite," they added. "It is by no means confined to one class; it takes its toll of suffering and death from the intelligent and well-to-do as well as from the less fortunate."

Mrs. Hall Is Better.

Friends of Mrs. S. H. Hall, who has been quite ill for some time, will learn with pleasure that she continues to improve and present indications are that she will have entirely recovered within the next week. Mrs. Hall has many friends in this city and vicinity who have inquired anxiously about her each day.

BRIBERY CHARGE IS HURLED BY COOK

EXPLORER SAYS MEN ARE PAID TO ATTACK HIM.

Doctor Cook Says That He is Going After the Men Higher Up.

HAMILTON, Mont., Oct. 29.—At the conclusion of his story of the attainment of the North Pole last night, Dr. Cook took up briefly the controversy regarding his ascent of Mount McKinley. He prefaced his remarks with this statement:

"Satisfied that the people of Montana believe in justice and fair play, I have come into your commonwealth, not to seek revenge, not to enter into a controversy with men in whom I had every confidence, but to ask for a fair deal. There is no malice in my heart; I am not here to invoke the strong arm of the law. My veracity has been attacked by men residing in this community. They have fallen into evil hands and the temptation was too great. They have sold their birthright for silver, and there probably was more than thirty pieces."

"I am here to give my version of the Mount McKinley controversy and then leave my case in the hands of an honest body—the people of the great State of Montana. I will accept their verdict."

Cook Speaks of War On Him.

Continuing, Dr. Cook said: "At the time of my arrival in New York, after two years and three months in the Arctic regions, and when all America was rejoicing over the double discovery of the North Pole, there began a warfare to rob me of the glory of an achievement which was, and is, rightly mine. Confident that my rival had triumphed after nearly a quarter of a century in quest of the great unknown, I, with all good Americans, rejoice in his success, and in Copenhagen I declared there was glory enough for two. Despite the bitter attacks which have been made upon me, my attitude in this respect is unchanged.

"When this warfare failed the enemy began this flank movement on the climb of Mount McKinley; men with money to burn in the flame of infamy entered the arena. Men of this community whom I had previously believed honest fell as victims.

"Their statements were absolutely untrue. Still, I nurse no spirit of revenge or malice against these misguided men. My counsel, however, has been instructed to continue the investigation until we catch the guilty money-giver higher up.

Battle of Injustice.

"Hamilton and Missoula have clearly shown their disapproval of this battle of injustice. They have shown they do not believe this malicious turn of rival powers. Your fairness and your faith is a pledge of human nature worth more than millions thrown into the hall of bribery.

"For the present I am willing to trust my case to the citizens of Montana as a jury. After you have read the mass of testimony my counsel had called, I am ready to abide by your verdict. Then, with a new expedition to Mount McKinley, I will guarantee our future position. My records are on the summit of the Alaskan peak, and accompanied by unbiased, fair-minded men, I pledge you my word that I will again reach the top of the mountain and bring back this unquestionable proof of the success of my former expedition."

FIRE PROOF VILLAGE FOR STATE OF JERSEY

The Colony of Houses Will All Be Constructed Entirely of Terra Cotta Blocks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—On a tract of land in Orange, N. J., which has lain undeveloped for many years, there has been started a unique building venture. The residents of Orange call it a "fireproof village." It is a colony of houses built entirely of terra cotta, designed to be fireproof inside and outside.

There has not been attempted before any such large development of the "fireproof home" idea. Isolated houses of the kind have been built, but here there are twenty-four of them going up at once, as a beginning. Though they differ in architectural style, they are all alike in their structural qualities. Terra cotta, in the form of hollow blocks, is the basic material. It is used for walls, floors and partitions.

The novel system of construction is largely due to the rise in the price of lumber in recent years. The cost of frame dwellings has approached so closely the cost of masonry dwellings that the saving in maintenance and insurance on the fireproof structures more than make up for the difference in original cost. This economic consideration is the element that has caused so many homes of sturdy, permanent construction to spring up in the last two or three years.

Until recently terra cotta blocks were used almost exclusively for fireproofing business buildings. Plans for the first terra cotta dwelling in New York City were filed with the Building Department only last year.

The new colony in Orange calls for by far the largest order of hollow terra cotta blocks ever used in residence construction. Six thousand tons of the burnt clay material are being shipped from the Perth Amboy factories of the National Fireproofing Company. In terms of measurement, this means 500,000 square feet.

In the walls and partitions the blocks are laid end on end, so that the hollow spaces form continuous chambers from top to bottom. These "dead air" spaces, as they are called, make the walls non-conductors of heat, the result being a cooler house in summer and a warmer one in winter. In the floors the blocks are laid in rows between masonry beams, and any kind of surface flooring that individual taste calls for may be placed on top of them.

of Newberry, expect to spend the next few days in the wilds of Lafayette county in search of big game, such as deer, bear, wild turkey, etc., as is their usual custom.

The party usually consists of a crowd two or three larger, but all were not ready to go at this time, and as the party desired to be upon the ground at the opening of the season Monday, they decided to "move on." Others may join them later.

The party will start from the home of W. A. Strickland this morning, and expect to reach the destination late tonight or Sunday morning, when a desirable camp site will be selected.

Every member of this party is a competent marksman, and our readers may expect some good reports from the hunt.

Big Motor Car Show Will Be Held in New York Jan. 8

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Although manufacturers of motor cars have made announcements of their 1910 models, it is known that a number of them have some interesting announcements that they are deliberately holding back until New York show time. When the original 1910 announcements were made the impression gained considerable credence that few changes were to be found in the majority of the cars, but a careful examination reveals a score of changes of one nature or another in nearly all of them. At the Tenth National Automobile Show at Madison Square Garden, January 8-15, the public will be given the best opportunity of seeing the new models of the old and standard makes of cars of the members of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, under whose auspices the automobile show in the garden is held annually. The latest models will be displayed side by side, and the public can compare their various points, see their differences and similarities, and, in general, "size up" what the makers have to offer, and note the general tendencies in motor-car design.

Presbytery of Alabama Endorses Prohibition

ANNISTON, Ala., Oct. 28.—The action of the North Alabama Presbytery in adopting resolutions at their annual session here yesterday declared in favor of the proposed prohibition amendment to Alabama's constitution, is to be made the subject of charges preferred against the Presbytery before the Alabama Presbyterian Synod and the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church. This was announced by Rev. W. I. Sinnott, clerk of the Presbytery, who asserts that the action of the Presbytery violates the constitution of that body in that the resolution is of a political nature and is prohibited.

The resolution declares the subject of the proposed prohibition amendment to be a moral rather than a political issue and non-partisan.

Dr. Sinnott delivered a strong address against the adoption of the resolution. He was himself criticised for giving out newspaper interviews, which, it was charged, placed the denomination in a false light.

Prevalence of Hook Worm Retarding Students' Work

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 29.—The prevalence of the hook worm among students of the University of Georgia is causing the faculty alarm and a campaign has been determined on to eradicate the little parasite.

Dr. J. C. Bloomfield, president of the city board of health, has been examining the students at the request of the faculty, and he reports that at least thirty per cent of the boys suffering from hook worms.

Many of those examined, Dr. Bloomfield said, are members of wealthy families, which, in his opinion, dis-credits the belief that the disease is only prevalent among the poor. Some of those afflicted with hook worm are members of the university football team, and physicians say that the hook worm is undoubtedly responsible for the poor showing the team is making, as one effect of the parasite is extreme physical sluggishness.

Since Dr. Bloomfield's report the faculty has been looking into class standing of those afflicted with hook worm, and in every case their standing is lower than those who are free from hook worm.

Big Coast Defense Guns Break All Former Records

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A new record has been established by the coast defense guns at Fort Hancock, N. J., a report of which has reached the War Department. A 16-inch disappearing rifle the first time fired four shots a minute at a target 20 feet high and 60 feet long, which was being towed by a tug, and every shot told. Four shots in one minute all struck within 10 feet of the target exactly as planned. This record never before has been approached by the Fisher.

coast artillery. No heavy gun battery above 6-inch in calibre has attained the speed of firing or the hits per minute made in this practice. The distance at which the record was made was more than 7,000 yards, or about four miles. The Eighteenth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, is credited with this new mark in gunnery. The company is ordinarily stationed at Fort Schuyler, N. Y., and at the time of the shooting was under the command of Captain Charles L.

WORLD'S CHAMPION TELLS OF HIS WORK

RELATES HISTORY OF SHOOTING CAREER.

Champion Well-Known Here, and His Numerous Friends Proud of His Record.

J. S. Fanning, more familiarly known throughout the sporting world as "Jack," who is representing the DuPont Powder Company, and who expects to be here renewing old acquaintances and friendship which he has gained on previous visits to this city in connection with his affiliation with the Gainesville Gun Club, was the center of attraction among the local sportsmen at the Brown House yesterday, when scores came to shake his big-hearted hand and express themselves as being glad to see him again. They have made him promise to stay over until the middle of the week, so that they might enjoy the opening of the hunting season in his company.

Mr. Fanning is indeed an interesting figure, since he has seen more experience in marksmanship and hunting than possibly any other man in the United States. Notwithstanding that he is yet under fifty by several years, his reminiscences of hunting experience, almost covering the world, are interesting, and at intervals tinged with a weird excitement.

Mr. Fanning is none too willing to talk of his experiences for publication, but, after some persuasion, gave a representative of The Sun a brief outline of his life since a young lad. A man with his modesty and the record obtained by his marksmanship do not work well together, since his experiences are well worth the attention of the reading public, as he has for years held the championship of the world for marksmanship in trap shooting, and has a number of certificates and gold medals to sustain this record.

Mr. Fanning's Biography.

As has been previously said, Mr. Fanning refrains from making much reference to himself, but, when pushed, he was induced to give the following story in brief:

"I am a Californian by birth, having first seen the light of day in San Francisco forty-four years ago. My father owned a fairly nice farm and ranch within a few miles of San Francisco, along the bay, and when I was nothing more than a swaddling tot we moved to this place, as my father desired to take up the country life again.

"Being regarded as an exceptionally good shot, and loving the things of nature, my father used to hunt a great deal for his pleasure, and, incidentally, for the benefit of his neighbors, who were very fond of game and who were less expert in shooting than he. The result of an afternoon shoot used to be a good game supper for most everybody around our home, for father used to bag the game.

"In the course of time I naturally inherited the instinct of my father, and became accustomed to go with him regularly, and it was not long before the neighbors actually used to 'kid' father about his 'unfalling aim,' as his son brought in more game than he.

"I do not deserve any credit for marksmanship, because, as I say, it was inherited; but I must admit, judging from my own experience and what others had to say, that I was making extraordinary good progress, for I seldom missed a shot, and when I went out for an afternoon's sport it used to be a universal conclusion that there would be 'something doing' in the game line for supper.

"The country must have taken notice of my marksmanship, for when I was seventeen I received an invitation to participate in the State championship of California in a glass ball shoot, in competition with a number of experienced marksmen, and to my surprise I won the championship, breaking fifty straights out of fifty—in other words, to use a modern expression, showing up '100 per cent pure.'

"In 1882 I was sent to Australia by a large hide and fur trading concern to shoot kangaroo, where I remained for two years. The art of shooting kangaroo in order to preserve their skins and make them more valuable is an art sure enough, as the festive animal must be hit at a certain point to retain the hide intact, but I 'made good' on the deal, and expect I could have been there yet if kangaroo had kept up more plentiful, and the birds of paradise had not shown up quite so well; but a large millinery importing firm employed my services to proceed to the Fiji Islands, South Pacific ocean, where I remained for one year shooting these birds of paradise for their plumage.

"Becoming tired of the Fiji Islands, I returned to my home in San Francisco to engage in shooting for the San Francisco markets, which at that time it may be said was probably the largest in the United States as far as wild game was concerned.

"After spending four years in this avocation, I was sent by a fur company of San Francisco to the Behring Sea, Alaska, after sure enough game, such as seals, polar and grizzly bear, walrus and caribou. For five years I spent a hard life in the Arctic, but in 1893-4 went to the Japanese and Siberian coasts in search of Russian fur seals. We also fared hard in this trip, but it was suddenly ended in the latter part of 1894 by the wrecking of our schooner, Henry Dennis, in a heavy snow storm off the coast of Kamtschatka, Siberia. We were finally rescued, after being cast off for seven days on a reef, by a Japanese fishing junk and taken to Yokohama, Japan. I remained in Japan for some time, shooting in that empire for my own pleasure, after which I went to China, remaining there for several weeks. I returned home via Sandwich Islands, where I also spent some time shooting, reaching San Francisco about May 1, 1905.

"In June of 1905 I became a professional trap shooter, and in 1906 held the world's championship, breaking 231 clay birds straight in the great New York tournament."

Mr. Fanning also holds the Madison Square Garden championship, breaking 175 straight in a continuous shooting in a snowstorm, the contest being pulled off on the roof of this famous resort in New York.

In 1901 Mr. Fanning, with nine others, met the crack marksmen of England, Scotland and Ireland for a purse of $25,000, of which he came out victorious, and now exhibits a handsome gold medal for his victory.

Mr. Fanning remembers his old friends, members of the Gainesville Gun Club, with whom he has participated in shoots upon more than one occasion, and he gives them in the aggregate credit for good records.

ROLLINS AND UNIVERSITY WILL CONTEST FOR SUPREMACY.

Florida Boys Have Given Good Account of Themselves and Will Continue to Do So.

Florida and Rollins will meet in a mighty struggle on the gridiron for the first time this season this afternoon. Florida has won two games, while Rollins has only won one. All games have been against athletic clubs—Florida against the Gainesville C. and the Olympic Club at Jacksonville. Rollins defeated Orlando on the 28th in a hard-fought game by a score of 3 to 0.

Florida is exceedingly strong this year. Taylor at right-half is a terror on defense and offense, and his kicking is superb, having kicked three goals out of three trials. Shands at left-half this year is in magnificent form, and is running the ends like a wildfire. Vidal at full-back is showing the same form of yore, which is being much. Moody and McCormick are playing splendid football this year, especially on the defense. Cox and McMillan also give good accounts of themselves in their positions as guards at every opportunity. Storter at center has proved himself one of the "finds" of the year. Edgerton at right-back is running the team in splendid style, and Rader and Wagner in the tackle positions are the backbone of the defense play.

The game will commence at 3:30 p. m., and it gives every promise of being as fast and furious a struggle as was ever pulled off in this "neck the woods."

Coach Pile has secured as officials Wade Hampton and Mr. Klineham, which assures honest decisions and clean football.

Friday Afternoon Blaze.
An alarm of fire was turned in from Box 37 at 2:15 o'clock Friday afternoon, which summoned the department to the barn belonging to L. L. Hill, north University street.

The department was prompt in responding to the alarm, but the same was not given until the building was well enveloped in flames, and upon arrival at the scene it was ascertained that the water pressure was very low, owing to the probable failure of the engineer at the station to put on the pumps. The result was that the entire building, with contents, was totally destroyed before relief could be secured.

The building contained a buggy and harness, the property of Marshal Dell, and that official also lost a quantity of feed stuff.

There was no insurance on the building or contents.

It is rumored that one benevolently inclined gentleman has promised to build a handsome kindergarten building if the present venture proves successful.

Archer Is Lively.
R. B. Hodgson of Archer, one of the leading merchants of that progressive town, was in the city on business Thursday. He states that Archer is on the best commercial footing now it has ever been, as new life seems to have been infused into the community. The farmers have realized fair prices for their products, and on Saturday the streets of his town present a real live appearance.

Made a Noise.

As a reminder that they were living, and that the University and Rollins teams were to have a game of football today, students of the University paraded the streets last night with their horns and other instruments, and "made a noise" like sure enough university students.

These students attracted a great deal of attention, and caused considerable amusement, as they wended their way, more than fifty strong, through the various streets of the city.

A Banquet

Spread before you would do you no good if you couldn't eat. What good can food do a child when as soon as it enters its stomach it is eaten by worms. HAD A FINE MEETING.

Summerlin Aerie No. 1844 Still Continuing Work.

Among other prospering organizations in Gainesville is the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which is constantly gaining in membership.

Summerlin Aerie held a fine meeting Thursday night, which was well attended, and at which the mysteries of the order were conferred upon one candidate, Charles Wood.

Mr. Wood good-naturedly declares that "it's worth the price," notwithstanding that at times he was soaring high, and he is glad that he is at last an Eagle.

A Conspicuous Sign.

In order to let the public know "where he was at," S. Sternberg, of the Sternberg Bargain House, West Union street, has placed a conspicuous sign over his store. Mr. Sternberg declares that, while he feels at home on Union street, he nevertheless feels like the old song, "In the right church but in the wrong pew," as he is on the opposite side of the street from where he conducted business for so many years before leaving for New York. He says he will get used to it after a while, however.

Opening of Kindergarten Delayed.

As the room could not be gotten ready by Monday, it has been decided not to open the kindergarten before the eighth of November. The ladies who are interested in the kindergarten movement are planning to make this room one of the most attractive places in town. It is rumored that one benevolently inclined gentleman has promised to build a handsome kindergarten building if the present venture proves successful.

Gainesville extends a cordial welcome to all visitors.

Perhaps Mr. Hawley can be "induced" to take over the Manchurian railroad.

Oklahoma is learning that politics and banking blend about as well as oil and water.

If November will only give us as many days of pleasant weather as October, we will truly have something to be thankful for.

Pullman makes a record showing for the fiscal year by earning 14.7 per cent on its stock. Despite its name, it is not a sleeping concern.

If the Chinese loan hangs fire much longer the Celestials may be relieved of the necessity of building a railroad by the advance in the art of aviation.

If some enterprising man would plant a few acres in wild rice on Paine's Prairie he would soon find it a great feeding ground for wild ducks.

A report states that American Tobacco interests will erect a cotton mill. We have stood for hay, alfalfa, cabbage and Manila cigars, but cotton—never.

With short staple cotton selling around fifteen cents Sea Island cotton ought to command at least thirty cents. And it will if the farmer holds out for that price.

The hunting season opens Monday, November 1, and sportsmen will not only find plenty of game in this neighborhood, but two of the best hotels in Gainesville to be found in the State.

The Times-Union says "Every day ought to be Sunday in Sunny Florida." Gee whiz! what would we poor devils in Gainesville do for a smoke or cold drink if such were the case? One day out of seven is sufficient for us, thank you.

If Halley's comet, which is already beginning to scare some timid people, would but produce the same effect upon delinquent subscribers to newspapers and make them pay up, it would be a financial benefit as well as an astronomical curiosity.

During the coming winter, says a dispatch from Washington, a joint army and navy board will give careful attention to the "important work" of building fortifications at the entrance to the Panama Canal. The board will go over the ground, investigate conditions and then be qualified to act intelligently when the plans for the fortifications are ready for carrying out.

If any Bostonian cares to take up the sport of aeroplane flying he need not go out of the city to purchase his machine, for an agency, the first in New England, has been established there. It is evident, however, that the time of their manufacture on a commercial scale has arrived, for agencies for their sale have been opened in New York and Boston by the Curtiss-Herring concern.

TIMBER DECAY.

Millions of feet of timber and finished lumber rot every year in railroad ties, bridges, trestles, piles, farm buildings, fences, poles, and mine props. The lumber consuming public of the United States pays perhaps thirty to forty million dollars a year to make good these losses from wood decay.

These great drains are a source of more and more concern each year. Chemists and engineers who have to do with the uses of wood are working unceasingly on the problem. The U. S. Forest Service has men who devote their whole time to it. The importance of the problem cannot be overestimated. Millions of dollars are annually saved by preservative treatment of timbers, but much yet remains to be learned.

Wood decay is caused by fungus, a vegetable growth sometimes so small that it can be seen only with the microscope. Its roots or branches, like minute hairs, force their way into the wood tissues and absorb or eat away the solid parts. The collapse which results is called decay. Timber is artificially preserved by forcing into its cells and pores certain substances which prevent the growth of fungi. As long as this substance is present in sufficient quantity the germs of decay—the threads and spores of fungus—cannot enter, and the wood is preserved. This often means doubling and sometimes trebling the life of the timber.

The United States Government considers the investigations of the preservative treatment of timber of such importance that the business of one office of the United States Forest Service, that of Wood Preservation, with new headquarters at Madison, Wis., is given over entirely to the work of experiments in co-operation with railroad companies and other corporations and individuals in prolonging the life of railroad ties, mine props, bridge timbers, fence posts and transmission poles.

The lengthening of the life of timber means the saving of thousands of dollars annually through doing away with the heavy expense of labor and cost of material for renewals.

Out-door pageants have caught the popular taste. Those at Quebec last year and at Lake Champlain and on the Hudson this year were pronounced success. The nation is now old enough and rich enough in history to make these shows both valuable and attractive. Then, too, the conditions of climate are much more favorable for such affairs than those of England, where they originated and where their success has been phenomenal. Within the next few years we may expect to see very many States and communities holding such pageants in which the principal historic events and the various stages of commercial and other advancement will be fittingly portrayed.

President Taft has set foot on foreign soil and no catastrophe has followed. The foundations of the mighty deep have not been shattered, neither have the heavens fallen. This must be quite a shock to those people who thought no President should visit another country because no President ever had. Perhaps it is just as well that an intelligent, progressive nation has shown that it is superior to such unreasoning prejudices.

THINGS BETTER PUT OFF UNTIL THE MORROW.

The other morning Joaquin Miller, the poet and philosopher, made a talk to the convicts assembled in the prison chapel of San Quentin, Cal., and is reported to have told them that former President Roosevelt and his policy of the strenuous life are responsible for more evils and crime in America than any other cause. He took as his topic "Tomorrow"; and said:

"We are all in too great a hurry. We should put some things off until tomorrow. Lying, for instance, I used to tell a few lies myself, but I found it did not pay. There is too much competition.

"And breaking into jail, that is another thing that we should put off until tomorrow. I broke into a jail once in Shasta county when I was only a lad. They arrested me for horse stealing, but I never stole a horse. Horses were of no account in those days, and if I had wanted to steal I would have stolen a mule, as they were the most valuable animals in the country."

The time for idling, or, rather, leisure, is old age, not youth. There is scarcely any sight more pitiful than that of a young man idling time away, thereby sapping his manhood and degenerating into a drone and a burden upon society. Let a man be industrious in his youth and prime of life, that in old age he may enjoy the leisure and tranquility he has earned by his labor.

Wild persimmons are now ripe, and possums are fat and juicy. There are plenty of these little animals in the woods around Gainesville and the colored brother will soon be offering them for sale. They sell for twelve and a half cents per pound in Atlanta.

MAKING GEBHARDT MULTI-MURDERER

REPORTED TO HAVE SAID HE KILLED SEVEN WOMEN.

Thinks Himself Safe From Electric Chair—Says They Can Prove Only Manslaughter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Frederick Gebhardt, who married Anna Luther under the name of Otto Mueller and confessed that he killed her when he tired of her, is positive that they cannot send him to the electric chair.

"They can't prove more than manslaughter," he mumbles, and then breaks into a rage against his Astoria wife, who has now turned completely against him.

"I said the other day," Mrs. Gebhardt told the police yesterday, "that a woman I did not know had told me Fred had killed seven other women. That was not true. Fred told me that himself, as a warning, when I became curious about his odd behavior.

"One morning I said to him: 'Fred, what makes you cry out such wild things in your sleep?' Instantly he was like a wild man. He seized me by the throat, threw me against the wall and cried out, 'What was it I said—tell me quick.' I lied to him, for I was frightened. He said very slowly: 'I have killed seven women in my time, and if you ever speak a word of this, I will kill you, too.'"

A conjecture that Gebhardt, or Mueller, might be the Paul Mueller who in 1896 killed a farmer, his wife and their daughter in the neighborhood of Worcester, Mass., is said to be refuted by the prison records, which the police are informed, show that Gebhardt at that date was safe in Sing Sing prison.

HER CHOICE OF BOAS.

The Question That Is Now Puzzling the Man in the Case.

Crosby had always been inclined to conservatism in household expenses, especially in the matter of his wife's dress bills. His wife went so far as to say that he was penurious.

She had been in need of a new boa for a long time, and after she hinted that her happiness would never be quite complete till she had one he at last consented to make the purchase. He went into a store and picked out two, one of which was a cheap imitation affair and the other a fine, expensive one.

Taking them to his office before going home, he changed the price marks, the expensive tag on the cheap boa, and vice versa.

His wife examined them for a long time very seriously indeed and then said: "Now, dear, the expensive boa is a beauty, and it is really very good of you to allow me my choice. Some women would take it without a word, but really I don't think we can afford the more costly one, and besides, dear, I think the cheap one the more stylish too. Why, Cros, dear, what's the matter? Are you ill?"

But dear old Cros had made his getaway into the night where he could kick himself as hard as he felt he deserved. But what he would like to know is this: Did his wife happen on the more expensive boa by pure accident or—

Girls and Outdoor Games.

Women in their ambition to be athletic contend against innumerable difficulties. One of these difficulties is skirts, a second is waists and a third—almost insuperable—is hair, including hairpins. Watch a girl playing tennis or cricket, and after a more than usually brilliant effort she invariably puts her hands to her head, as if she expected something to fall off if she did not. Energetic play is usually attended by dishevelment of the unruly locks and a shedding of hairpins that cause the pretty athlete distress. Her pleasure in the game is marred by a sense of insecurity and a constant fear of consequences. No woman can wield a racket or essay a run with an undivided mind. Half her brain is occupied by the fearful surmise that her hair is coming down—a surmise, by the way, which is probably too painfully justified by the fact.—London Black and White.

A Shaking Up.

May all be very well so far as the trusts are concerned, but not when it comes to chills and fever and malaria. Quit the quinine and take a real cure—Ballard's Herbine. Contains no harmful drugs and is as certain as taxes. If it doesn't cure, you get your money back. Sold by W. M. Johnson.

Holding His Job.

Frank C. Hall, for many years employed as clerk in this city but who is now holding a lucrative position as traveling salesman for a Savannah hat firm, is greeting old friends here. Frank says that notwithstanding most of the fellows are yelling "bad times" throughout this section, he is managing to sell enough to "keep his job together." He means, however, in the expression, "the other fellows," not the merchants, but the commercial traveler.

PROMPT TO ACT.

A Man Who Seemed Always to Be Ready For Emergencies.

To be ready for emergencies was one of the gifts of Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, the great teacher of the blind, writes his daughter, Mrs. Laura E. Richards, who has edited his "Letters and Journals." She gives several instances in which his quick action prevented serious accidents.

Once at Green Peace my father was going to drive with my mother and my sister Florence in a closed carriage with a large window in front.

As the driver was mounting the box he dropped his whip and got down to recover it. This startled the young horses, and they bolted down the driveway.

My father tried to open the big window, but it stuck fast. He dashed through the plate glass as if it had been paper and, catching up the reins, stopped the runaways in less time than it takes to tell it.

When Thomas came running up, white and breathless, he found "doctor" quietly shaking the bits of glass from his coat and hat and explaining to my terrified mother that he "went so quick there was no time to get out."

Still another memory of my mother's shows his quickness in a different way. He was walking along Washington street one day when a furious dog rushed at him and bit his hand severely.

There was no Pasteur institute in the forties. My father instantly raised up the skin and flesh of the bitten part and, holding it firmly, entered the nearest apothecary's shop.

"Cut this piece off," he said briefly.

The apothecary exclaimed in horror. He could not, he would not, without a surgeon's order. It was out of the question.

"I am a surgeon," said my father. "and I command you to cut it off."

It was cut off. My father dressed the wound with his other hand and went about his business.

Made Him Sick.

A noted golfer one afternoon played rather badly. He turned to his caddy after he had fooled a drive and said in his genial way:

"This isn't a pleasant spectacle for you. I'm as bad as a Scotch laird at St. Andrews. The St. Andrews caddies are all old men, and one day when this laird was in especially bad form his caddy, after nine holes of missed shots and putts, shook his gray old head, surrendered the laird's bag of clubs to another caddy and said:

"Ye'll no mind, laird? I made but a poor breakfast this mornin', and I'm no in a condition to stand any mair o' it."

The Navel Orange.

The first we know of the navel orange, which is very valuable not only on account of its fine quality and taste, but also because of its being seedless, is of a single tree that was found growing on the northern shore of the Mediterranean sea. This was about the year 1565. Grafts of this tree were taken to Spain by the Moors several hundred years ago, and from Spain the trees were carried to South America by the Spaniards.—St. Nicholas.

She Liked Silk Hosiery.

Susan B. Anthony was a woman of simple taste in dress, but her close friends knew of one pretty feminine vanity that she always held to. She had a weakness for silk stockings. Being pressed on one occasion for an explanation of what most women at one time regarded as an unnecessary extravagance, she laughingly exclaimed: "Oh, I just love 'em! They are an inspiration. If I have my silk stockings on when I rise to make an address I feel just as if I am walking among the clouds. They help me to soar away on flights of eloquence. I wouldn't be without them."

Just the Thing.

The poet took his silver mounted pistol from the bureau drawer. "What are you going to do with that?" asked his timid wife. "I'm going to use it to drive the wolf from the door," he answered. Ten minutes later the pawnbroker had advanced $2 on it.—Chicago News.

Headed Him Off.

He—You know, Clara, about the diamond engagement ring I want to give you, diamonds have gone up so— She—Oh, you dear boy! How sweet of you to want to make sacrifices to prove your love.—Baltimore American.

Lost Opportunity.

Wife—I remember the night you proposed to me—I bent my head and said nothing. Hub (comfortingly)—I know it worries you, dear; but never mind—you've made up for it since.—Exchange.

GAINESVILLE,

—THE—

University City.

Gainesville is conceded to be the most enterprising as well as the most beautiful city in the interior of Florida. It is located in the very center of the State, half way between the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, surrounded by lands of such fertility as to be capable of producing a great variety of crops in the heart of the truck-growing phosphate and naval stores belt. It has the best educational advantages in the State, good churches, with edifices which are superior to any town of its size in Florida, with large and consistent congregations; has a climate which cannot be excelled for health and pleasure. All these natural advantages, combined with a progressive and enterprising cosmopolitan citizenship, are sure to make a big city.

There are many natural attractions in close proximity to the city, some of which are Alachua Sink, Palmetto Prairie, the Devil's Mill Hopper, Warren's Cave, and Lake Newnan, all of which are reached by private conveyances.

Spring Park Stock Farm, the largest and finest live stock farm in the State is only eight miles west of the city and is reached by a good hard road affording a most pleasant drive.

The farmers of Alachua county, of which Gainesville is the county seat "live at home and board at the same place." The temperature is very uniform, scarcely ever reaching the nineties in summer or the twenties in winter. The population of Gainesville is about eight thousand, representing nearly every nationality on the face of the earth, and strangers always meet with a hearty welcome.

ABOUT ADVERTISING—NO. 2

The Doctor Whose Patients Hang On

By Herbert Kaufman.

Out in China all things are not topsy turvy. Physicians are paid for keeping people well and when their patients fall ill their weekly salary check is stopped. The Chinese judge a medical man not by the number of years he lives, but by the length of time his clients survive.

An advertising medium must be judged in the same way. The fact that it has age to its credit isn't so important as the age of its advertising patronage. Whenever a newspaper continues to display the store talk of the same establishment year after year, it's a pretty sure sign that the merchant has made money out of that newspaper, because no publication can continue to be a losing investment to its customers over a stretch of time without the fact being discovered. And when a newspaper is able to boast of an honor roll of stores that have continued to appear in its pages for a stretch of decades it has proven its superiority as plainly as a mountain peak which rises above its fellows.

The combination of stability and progress is the strongest virtue that a newspaper can possess. Only the fit survive—reputation is a difficult thing to get and a harder thing to hold—it takes merit to earn it and character to maintain it. There is a vast difference between fame and notoriety, and just as much difference between a famous newspaper and a notorious one.

Just as a manufacturer is always eager to install his choicest stocks in a store which has earned the respect of the community, just so a retailer should be anxious to insert his name in a newspaper which has earned the respect of its readers. The manufacturer feels that he will receive a square deal from a store which has age to its credit. He can expect as much from a newspaper which is a credit to its age!

The newspaper which outlives the rest does so because it was best fitted to—it had to earn the confidence of its readers—and keep it. It had to be a better newspaper than any other, and better newspapers go to the homes of better buyers. Every bit of its circulation has the element of quality and staying power. And it is the respectable, home-loving element of every community—not the touts and the gamblers—toward which the merchant must look for his business vertebrae—he cannot find buyers unless he uses the newspaper that enters their homes. And when he does enter their homes he must not confuse the sheet that comes in the back gate with the newspaper that is delivered at the front door.

"That Which Is Worth Having Is Worth Advertising For"

The old adage that what is worth having is worth asking for is still true—true of the more intricate life of today.

The thing you want—whether it is a used piano or a home, whether it is a ready-made business or a lost pocket-book—is obtained readily through advertising, and with difficulty, or not at all, through other means.

HELPFUL HINTS
ON HAIR HEALTH

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally
Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to someone else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hatband is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Gainesville only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. W. McCollum & Co., corner East Main and Union streets.
